Guest Speaker

Regi Campbell

James R. (Regi) Campbell is an experienced investor and entrepreneur. Since 1997, when he created Seedower Investments, he has helped launch eight start-up companies, all service businesses with an emphasis in technology. He founded InterServ Services Corporation, a marketing, research and outsourcing company headquartered in Atlanta, Georgia; in 1993 InterServ's revenues grew to $50 million with more than 1400 employees in eleven offices nationwide before it merged with IQI Incorporated in 1997. Prior to InterServ, Campbell was president and chief executive officer of Async Corporation, a national voice mail service company. In its first five years, sales grew to $30 million. Async was acquired by Telecom USA in 1989, and then became a part of MCI in 1990. Four years after it began, Async was thirty-ninth on the Inc. Magazine list of fastest growing companies, and Campbell was recognized as the high technology Entrepreneur of the Year in Georgia.

Born in Spartanburg, South Carolina, Regi received both his BS and his MBA from the University of South Carolina. He began his business career with BellSouth, and later joined AT&T Information Systems where he rose to the position of sales division manager before resigning to pursue his own business in 1984.

His wife, Miriam, also of Spartanburg, is a graduate of Converse College and has been involved at the genesis of each of his entrepreneurial endeavors. They have been married for thirty-eight years, have two married children and two grandchildren.

Regi serves on the board of directors of High Tech Ministries and Good Samaritan Health Center - Cobb. He also serves as an elder along with Andy Stanley at North Point Community Church. He mentors eight young executives each year through a program called "Radical Mentoring" that he began in 2000.

Since committing his life to Christ in 1983, Campbell has intentionally sought to make a difference for God's kingdom in the marketplace. Campbell is an experienced communicator with frequent speaking engagements. God uses his transparency and his willingness to share both his successes and failures to move audiences to "get in the game" for the kingdom of God as they go about their business Monday through Friday.

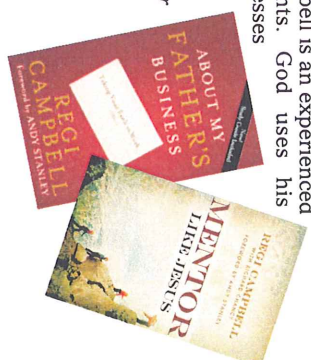

Two of Regi's books will be available at CS2K10, "Mentor Like Jesus" and "About My Father's Business".
