

Map 3- Who you are and who you're not

Knowing who you are will help you determine where to go and how to get there in the future. Take a moment and think about your congregation. Identify who you are and who you're not; who you're called to be and who you're not. As you clarify your identity and your calling, you'll find a sense of clarity in your decisions and direction for the future.

We are...	We are not...

We are called to be...	We are not called to be...

Drawing Conclusions:

1. What is the difference between who you are and who you're called to be?
2. Are you trying to be something you're not? Are you trying to be something you're not called to be? What is the cost of expending resources in this way?
3. How might those resources be redirected toward becoming who you are called to be?
4. How does your mission line up with who you're called to be?
5. How are you actively helping people become this church?
